

The Oft Told Story

Of the peculiar medicinal merits of Hood's Sarsaparilla is fully confirmed by the voluntary testimony of thousands who have tried it. Peculiar in the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients, peculiar in the extreme care with which it is put up, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in the unequalled good name it has made at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained,

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the most popular and successful medicine before the public today for purifying the blood, giving strength, creating an appetite. "I suffered from wakefulness and low spirits, and also had eczema on the back of my head and neck, which was very annoying. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I have received so much benefit that I am very grateful, and I am always glad to speak a good word for this medicine." Mrs. J. S. SNYDER, Pottsville, Penn.

Purifies the Blood

Henry Biggs, Campbell Street, Kansas City, had atrocious sores all over his body for fifteen years. Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cured him.

Wallace Buck, of North Bloomfield, N. Y., suffered eleven years with a terrible varicose ulcer on his leg, so bad that he had to give up business. He was cured of the ulcer, and also of catarrh, by

VERITAS ORATES

On the Teachings of History and Experience.

The national legacy handed down to the people of the United States by the founders of our national existence is passing through a crisis that will prove more severe than anything that has preceded it. There is a class of men whose hate and ambition lie concealed in sophistry and political cunning, which will prove more destructive to national unity and prosperity than open hostility to law and constitutional government. Their sophistry and cunning wind themselves about the national heart, and consume by fraud what they cannot justly control. Throughout this American domain the accuser's voice is heard declaiming against honest and patriotic endeavor for the maintenance of equity and justice towards all. Brutus declared that he struck at and destroyed imperial Caesar in defense of the people's rights. How much the course of our modern Brutus will resemble the Roman, remains to be seen in the future history of our nation. The subtle and deadly hate against the maintenance of a just balance of national affairs is but too manifest in the political rivalry that is permeating every class of society. What national question can be discussed by the defenders of constitutional liberty, but is met by a spirit of antagonism that taints our national honor! The greatest enemies of our national institutions are not to be found among either the professed or practical Anarchists. The moral and physical force of the government is sufficient to cope with open resistance, but not against the subtle influence of professed friends. The efforts being applied by the enemies of our Democratic institutions are working in a direction that finds support from those who should be found ready to resist by the ballot, a condition of things that has always led to oppression and poverty among the laboring classes. Is it not too evident that the doctrine of sectional interest is working an estrangement of the people? The questions of the day are not met by a calm and deliberate judgment, and in consideration of the best good to all concerned. Some sections may be inconvenienced to a certain extent, yet not to such an extent that should lead to a neglect of our national interest. The national union can only be perpetuated by the maintenance of our national honor, and the principles of purity and love for the whole country.

The world has never yet seen any good results from class distinction, and so far as Americans are concerned, they should not only frown upon usurpers in other lands, but upon every attempt at a dividing line by the monied aristocracy of this land. President Lincoln did well to dread the influence of a monied class, for, if history can be depended upon, this class has been the bane of human society. Organized force has always followed financial triumph. The moment the sordid statesman and aristocrat reaches a place securing safety, physical force has always been adopted to maintain the ascendancy over others.

The genius of Democracy has and ever will be found opposed to the centralization of political or financial power. The design of Democracy is universal good, based upon the fact that nothing short of an universal elevation and development of the entire race will meet the approval of the Divine Being, and the good and pure among men.

Modern civilization, as interpreted by the governments and aristocracy of the old world, does not contemplate the elevation of the race. Its sole object is possession and political power. This object is being followed by the Republican party with a zeal that is worthy a better cause. The force of the governments of the old world is the power behind the throne against the will of the people. Who will deny that the whole system is sustained by excessive taxation?

Mr. Blaine has returned from the old world better educated as to the nature of might over right, which might finds its vitality in the centralization of money. The Republican Party are striving to establish a condition of things that if successful, would deprive the people of self-government. The National or Democratic Party have a right; indeed, it is a duty they owe the people, to confront a party that are working for the estrangement of the people and death to our national unity. Every American and lover of human happiness and equal rights should try and be well advised in reference to the designs of those who are accumulating capital, which in the very nature of things becomes a powerful lever in controlling labor. Give the monopolists of America the control of the capital of the country, and the laboring classes are doomed to eat the crumbs that fall from the rich man's table. Should the indifference of the people continue in reference to national questions a few years longer, our liberties will hang by a thread, so slender that the breath of an aristocrat may sever it, which would cost the lives of millions to restore.

There is one enduring hope left, which rests upon the fiat of the Eternal One, who has decreed that this government shall never be overthrown until it reaches eternal day, and be absorbed in the glory and government of God. When the dew of heaven descended upon our fathers, who founded a government for and by the people, it was the bringing in and the establishment of a better covenant, and the establishment of a power when rightly used, breathe peace on earth and good will to men. Whilst the spirit of monied wealth would dismantle the bones of the working man, and gather every flower that sends forth its perfume to greet the weary laborer to his American home, can we avoid looking back to the days when this vision of God filled the souls of men with joy, and the voices of past ages met and mingled with the souls of men who were inspired to declare that all men were born free and equal? God and men had met once more on earth to try and establish unity and love among men. Party strife was not born at such a period, and never would. If ambition and earthly glory had lost its hold as an earthly heritage; but Americans are stooping to gather the bubbles that float upon the stream of time, to try and adorn our national and individual life. Whilst we throw away these high honors that lend charm to humanity and preserve a pure national character. We stand almost ready to barter away our rich inheritance for a mess of political potage, offered by men who have no common interest with the people. The genius of a pure Christianity has no charm or rule among us. We rush into political strife as the horse rushes into battle, and the cry is give us gold in place of liberty and national unity.

Cache County Cullings.

WILLIAM GOODWIN has received his commission as Probate Judge from the President of the United States. As soon as he qualifies he will enter upon his new duties.

The County Court has made an appropriation of $500 to be expended in repairing the road between Providence and Millville and certain portions of the road between Logan and Wellsville. Work will begin next week.

On Wednesday, the County Court let the contract to build a bridge over Bear River at Benson, to the California Bridge Company. The bridge will be a combination of iron and wood, on iron piers, and to span 140 feet. It is to be completed with all the approaches for $4,100.

The plans for Logan's city park were received by Recorder Wilson from Mr. Kletting, of Salt Lake, on Tuesday last. To attempt a description of the grounds as laid out would be almost impossible. The plans are elaborate in the extreme. Of course no one has any idea of their completion for years to come. We understand the object in getting them now is to have something to work to, so that when improvements are made, they can be made understandingly, and with some object in view. It is the intention to place the general view of the grounds on exhibition, when all will have an opportunity of seeing it.
